

HAMMOND

Summer Enrichment Programs

Below you will find a list of summer opportunities for high school students. Hammond School does not endorse any particular program. Families should investigate options carefully in order to make sure that the right match has been found for individual students.

Another useful online resource for summer programs is www.petersons.com/summerop/index.html. Also, Allen's Guide lists a host of summer opportunities: general day and residential camps, teen travel, and camps focused on academics, the arts, self-improvement, religion, competitive sports, and special needs. The site includes summer job opportunities and other programs that would be relevant for students considering a gap experience.

Regardless of how Hammond students choose to spend their summer months, we hope they will consider using some their time productively—actively involved in endeavors that truly enrich their own lives or the lives of those around them, whether in their family, their school, or the larger community. Of course, we also want them to relax a bit so they come back to Hammond in August renewed and ready for another challenging, exciting year!
